

In Memoriam

Neil Peter Brennan
4/17/49 - 3/31/86

The family and I would like to express our appreciation and thanks to all the members of the Gay community for all the support and help through the past year.

Bruce

Do not stand by my grave and weep
I am not there. I do not sleep.
I am a thousand winds that blow
I am a diamond glint on snow
I am the sunlight on ripened grain
I am the gentle autumn rain.
When you awake in the morning hush
I am the swift uplifting rush
Of quiet birds circling in flight
I am the soft starshine at night
Do not stand by my grave and cry
I am not there. . . I did not die.

Discovery could lead to AIDS vaccine

NEW YORK, NY (AP) - Scientists have produced an inactive form of AIDS virus that points toward possible new anti-AIDS drugs and could lead to a vaccine, according to two new reports.

The virus resembles the normal deadly AIDS virus in all respects except one - it lacks a single microscopic gene, and as so is unable to reproduce and cause disease.

Such a virus might serve as the basis of a vaccine, its discoverers said last Friday, March 28. The theory is that the immune systems of people deliberately infected with the altered virus might produce antibodies that would protect against infection with the lethal AIDS virus.

The discovery was made independently by William Haseltine and colleagues at the Harvard School of Public Health in Boston, and by a group led by Flossie Wong-Staal of the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Maryland.

Supreme Court considers Gay rights

WASHINGTON, DC (AP) - The Supreme Court, told that morality and decency are at stake, was urged last Monday, March 31, to rule that consenting adults have no constitutional right to homosexual conduct in the privacy of their homes.

"Our legal history and our social traditions have condemned this conduct," Georgia Assistant Attorney General Michael E. Hobbs said in defending his state's sodomy law. About half of the states outlaw sodomy, defined in Georgia as "any sexual act involving the sex organs of one person and the mouth or anus of another."

Hobbs said, "The state of Georgia is not acting as Big Brother. It is adhering to centuries of tradition regarding the morality of its people."

But Harvard law professor Laurence Tribe said states may outlaw sodomy between consenting adults merely with "an invocation of the majority's morality".

Representing an Atlanta homosexual, Tribe said, "If liberty means anything in our Constitution, it means the power of government is limited regarding the intrusion into something as personal and intimate as this."

Hobbs countered: "The liberty that exists under our Constitution is not unrestrained. It is ordered liberty; it is not licentiousness."

The highest U.S. Court is being asked to decide whether there is a "fundamental right" for consenting adults to engage in private homosexual conduct. The court previously has ruled that marriage, procreation and abortion are such fundamental rights.

The 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals last year ruled that Georgia's sodomy law infringes on a fundamental right, and is constitutional only if the state "can demonstrate a compelling interest in restricting this right." Judicial scrutiny that employs the "compelling interest" standard most often results in the scrutinized law or governmental practice being declared unconstitutional.

Were the justices to find that private homosexual conduct is not a fundamental right, Georgia's sodomy law would be found constitutional if the state legislature could cite any rational reason to enact it.

Georgia's law was challenged by Michael Hardwick, a self-described homosexual who was arrested in 1982, but never prosecuted, for committing sodomy in his Atlanta home.

AAF-T receives rodeo proceeds

PHOENIX - Arizona Gay Rodeo Association has announced that a check in the amount of $1,699.17 has been presented to the Arizona AIDS Fund-Trust. The check, which represents 100% of the proceeds from AGRA's 1986 Rodeo, was presented at the 1986 Western Express Reader's Choice Awards. Elsewhere in this issue of OBSERVER is a detailed financial report of the first annual AGRA Rodeo.

AGRA would once again like to take this opportunity to thank

ATC PRESENTS

'PRIVATE LIVES'

TUCSON - The Arizona Theatre Company is currently performing Noel Coward's play "Private Lives" at the Tucson Community Center Theatre. "Private Lives" is replacing "Glengarry Glen Ross" on ATC's schedule March 29 to April 20.

"Elyot and Amanda, once married, find themselves sharing a balcony in a luxurious hotel where they've gone to honeymoon with their new mates. Their original love rekindles -- and what follows is a theatre evening of laughs and entertainment with one of Mr. Coward's masterpieces of comic writing."

The official opening and a gala celebration will take place tomorrow evening, April 3 at 8 p.m. The show will be performed every night but Mondays until April 20 at 8:00 p.m. There will be daytime performances Sunday, April 6, 13 & 20 at 2:00 p.m. and Wednesday, April 9 & 16 at 2:00 p.m. plus a special added performance on Saturday, April 19 at 2 p.m.

Ticket prices range from $7.00 to $16.50 depending on the day and time of the performance. Discounts for students, seniors, military personnel and groups of 10 or more. For further information or reservations call 622-2823. Visa and Master Charge accepted.

AAF-T TO RECEIVE RODEO PROCEEDS the community for the tremendous support at this year's rodeo," said Todd H. of AGRA. "I'm sure we are all looking forward to next year's rodeo to be even bigger and better, and it will be!"

Anyone who is interested in joining AGRA and becoming a part of one of the most exciting events of the year, general membership meetings are held on the first and third Sunday of each month at Charlie's (727 W. Camelback Road, Phoenix). Meetings are scheduled to begin at 5:00 p.m. Everyone is welcome to come and join the excitement.

Some upcoming events planned by AGRA from which the proceeds go to promoting the 1987 Rodeo, are a Casino Night at Charlie's on April 5 from 7 to 11 p.m.; a "Mini-Rodeo" at Charlie's on April 16 and of course the Spring Gymkhana on April 27 at Skyline Ranch. All of these events are held in Phoenix. Tickets for the Gymkhana are $5.00 per person and are available now at Charlie's in Tucson and the Graduate in Tucson or by calling 277-5784.

MORE FROM LES

(ED NOTE: Les Botten is a critic and writer living in Arizona. This is the first of a number of columns dealing with a variety of subjects of interest to our readers).

ON SCARLET LETTERS

Hawthorne's novel, The Scarlet Letter, seemed quaint when I first read it. That adultery could have been punished by community branding appeared to be far-fetched. True, Hawthorne was interested in fictional characters set in a Puritan scene, the the scarlet 'A' has come to mean an unforgiving society enforcing policy against persons discovered to have acted against its will.

Like Whitman and Melville, Hawthorne had to be careful that his community did not connect, for they would have forced him to wear an 'H'. His feelings for men were known. Maybe Hawthorne knew from experience what it felt like to wear the red 'A', that the wearer was less than human. So the problem is not new.

Churches are much like governments. Each is an institution. And institutions gain much of their power by classifying those who enter into their power. Graduate from a university and your personal worth has increased. Be sentenced to prison and your worth is eroded. Today, as in the past, institutions establish individual social standing. It is no surprise, then, to realize that institutions must constantly consume people. And that is a real problem.

Like Hester in Hawthorne's novel, we, as a community, must now go to the institutions, confess our 'sin' and acknowledge before everyone that we are sick and some of us are dying. Will today's institutions agree that we are sick and deserve death? No matter, our confessional gift will be a scarlet 'A'.

Yes, Hester. I now understand.

The increasingly popular idea of branding AIDS carriers with a visible mark has gained another supporter.

William F. Buckley Jr., in a copyrighted article in the New York Times has called for mandatory testing for AIDS, and tattooing of those who fail the test.

Mr. Buckley's article is interesting not for any dubious light it may shed on the AIDS controversy, but for what it reveals about Mr. Buckley himself.

First of all, let me remind you that Mr. Buckley is a well educated man, with perhaps the best command of the English language of any person alive today. I refuse to believe that he chooses his words carelessly, and therefore he must mean what he says.

"Everyone detected with AIDS should be tattooed in the upper forearm, to protect common needle users, and on the buttocks, to prevent the victimization of other homosexuals."

You have to read that paragraph several times to see just how absurd it is. I'll come back later to Mr. Buckley's concern for common-needle user, but for now look at the phrase "....to prevent the victimization of other homosexuals."

The assumption here is that anyone who is an AIDS carrier is, ipso facto, a homosexual. Never mind about any hetero-sexual, female, or pediatric patients, if a person has AIDS, then he must be Gay.

Even stipulating that most AIDS patients are Gay men, the assumption that male homosexuals routinely inspect each others' unclad buttocks struck me as so ludicrous as to provide the only bright spot on an otherwise dismal day. If Mr. Buckley realizes that mutual buttock inspection is not the routine practice then he must be concerned with Greek passive men infecting Greek active partners (the opposite seems far more likely to me, but I have no figures to support this). Or is it Mr. Buckley's position that Greek active men should be protected while Greek passive men deserve whatever they get?

But let us consider Mr. Buckley's sudden and overwhelming concern for the health and well being of illicit drug abusers. (I hate to sound judgemental, but I have tried, and failed, to think of a legitimate reason to share a hypodermic needle with someone).

If Mr. Buckley wants to reduce the risk to the health of common needle users, why not urge that hypodermic needles, new, clean and sterile, be made available at low cost and no questions asked? Are you going to tell me that someone who spends around $75.00 for a fix is going to balk at another buck for a clean needle?

Of course, in a free society there would be no illicit drugs. Drugs would conform to certain standards of purity and labeling, and then the individual would weigh risk and benefits and decide what they were and were not going to put into their own bodies. But we have succumbed to the elitist idea that the average person is too stupid to make decisions like that, and that Big Brother must protect us from ourselves.

Given Mr. Buckley's track record, I hope I can be forgiven for suspecting that his interest in the health and well being of common needle users is simply cordoned tears (or other less polite phrases suggest themselves).

Mr. Buckley further goes on to state "....Our society is generally threatened, and in order to fight AIDS, we need the civil equivalent of universal military training."

I agree with Mr. Buckley that our society is threatened, but the solution is not to draft everyone, give blood tests to all and sundry, and sentence anyone who fails to spend the rest of their lives ringing a bell and shouting "Unclean!" as they walk down the street.

The threat comes from Mr. Buckley and the other fascists who would sacrifice civil rights and due process in the name of expediency.

Any abridgement of civil rights and due process is too much. We must encourage education and research, hoping that the light of truth and reason will dispel the darkness of fear and ignorance.

Sincerely,

WHAT'S UP DOC?

I tell you, nothing is safe anymore. Someone at work must really be scratching their heads because my column for this week was lifted. Now, with all my notes missing, here goes -

It never fails me. Just when I think I've seen the best show, along comes another. Aviva, in my book you have the best shows possible. Words cannot describe how much I enjoyed SOS' show, produced by Aviva Diamond at the Graduate last Sunday. I think we all saw the beginning of a new country star - Aviva.

Then we, the audience were shown why Big Mike was elected President of SOS - so butch (?). Next, one of the Graduate's heavies, Ken, even with the running make-up.

When it was time for the oldest couple, everyone was treated. Dirty Dolly being so butch, Ben so femme, they were fantastic.

Let's I forget the always popular Roxanne from the Graduate. This show was probably Roxanne's hardest because for the first time her mother was sitting in the audience. Thank goodness Fern tipped her son/daughter so Roxanne could sing to everyone in the audience and be natural.

As for the Easter Bonnet Contest, notes missing. I hope Bob has the names elsewhere in this paper. When it came to the Easter Basket Contest, Penny was in heaven. She was the sole judge for each and every basket swinging. To watch Penny checking the baskets and she was really trying to convince everyone she was shy (HA!).

Copperstate Leathermen have the "Murder" at the Copper Queen Hotel in Bisbee on May 3 and 4. Get your applications from the bar for the run because it should be loads of fun. This Sunday, April 6, from 2 to 5 p.m., at 181's, Copperstate are having their monthly beer bust - .50 per glass.

TKO's Spring Fling also is getting closer. This year it will be held from April 18-20. If you want to join them on this always fun run, get your application filled out.

This coming Saturday will be Cheri's show at the Graduate. This one is really going to be fun because I read a preview of the show in the D-Gazette.

TBBS: Rob, this one's on me but not the next time.... You should have seen CoCo (Peter) when she walked into the Graduate and discovered Fern wearing one of her (CoCo's) outfits. I also found out that Fern is a chicken hawk. Can you just hear the conversations at Roxanne and CoCo's house with Candy and Fern talking about men. Poor Roxanne and CoCo both must have sore necks.

That's it. If I find this week's missing column, I'll bring this one up to date next week.

I TRY TO REMEMBER THE "CRUISE TO REMEMBER"

upstairs. That was the really popular one, 'cause you could bowl horrible cliched Broadway tunes while you looked out over the street from the balcony. Everybody seemed to enjoy it. When finally the Copa opened it was worth the wait. The main part was in the old theater and had a light show that looked like Frankenstein's lab when he raised him up and the lightning hit. I mean, if I was the type to do drugs, this would sure as hell be the place to do 'em. The sound system absolutely rattled the place (Helen Keller would've loved it!) but you could still talk (Rumors used to be so loud I figured all you were supposed to do was make eye contact; beyond basic tricking you were lost). There was a leather bar behind this that looked like an uncluttered Graduate and showed dirty slides of good looking men on the wall all the time. Upstairs was a piano bar with lots of enraptured people sitting around yowling like cats to more Broadway tunes (Do you really like those songs about corn or wheat or some vegetable growing and washing your hair and stuff? How mundane.) Out back was a "garden bar" with a place to sit that looked like the front porch of Tara. Slightly out of place in a disco, but a nice thought none the less. Danced our socks off 'till it got too crowded and then headed down to Michael's. They were having a black-face drag show, of all things, and it was really bad. You forget you're in the South until some of that old-familiar feeling pops. John was, slightly off, and giving out ship tokens (drink chitter on board) to people beside us at the bar. We left something after 3 and headed our way back to ship - sailing at 6:00 AM.

LETTERS

DEAR EDITOR:

This letter is to say "Thank You" for allowing me the chance to perform at the Observer Benefit two weekends ago. It was a great pleasure to be able to perform with 'Tucson's Finest'. Aviva Diamond asked all performers to "leave their egos at the door," and I am glad that everyone cooperated.

I sincerely hope that the cooperation from that night will carry on into the future. Tucson should be proud of all the performers in this city and in Phoenix. The bond of love that was displayed that night should prove to all of us that, with love and support from everyone, we shall overcome any and all walls that may rise before us. Once again, thank you for an outstanding night.

Don Henkle
Garland Productions

DEAR EDITOR:

As the producers of "Garland Productions" we would like to make clear our feelings toward the letter from B.J. in last week's paper. We agree that often times it is best for people to express their feelings, both of praise and of disgust, but to condemn an entire community is not the way to express disgust. We will agree that the low turnout for the children's benefit was very disappointing and a lot of money was wasted, but with some research, we have come to a few reasons why this might have happened. 1. Not enough support from local bars. 2. The location in which the show was held. 3. Lack of personal interaction with the Gay community, informing them of the reason for the benefit. Those are some of the reasons that we have found, and we're sure that there are more.

"Garland Productions" has always produced high-calibre shows, and will continue to do so. If B.J.'s letter made any of you upset, we are truly sorry, but that is how he felt. I can't and won't condemn anyone for saying what they feel, but please keep in mind that those comments were only from B.J., NOT FROM "Garland Productions".

One final note: The Observer Benefit was a very special night for all who were there, and "Garland Productions", represented by Don Henkle and Jacqueline De' Savol, were there showing that "we do love and care about the Tucson Gay Community".

Don Henkle,
Andrew Washington

DEAR EDITOR:

I am writing on behalf of a letter I wrote that was printed in the Observer for the week of March 26.

You said it is better to hold our anger and disappointment until you calm down. I agree. That letter was written when I was doing that. I was putting my feelings down on paper so I could calm down and get my thoughts together, after which a new letter was written.

In a mix-up at home, the wrong letter was mailed. Since it has already been printed I see no point in sending the other one, which should have been mailed in the first place.

It is my own fault for leaving something laying around when it should have been thrown away by then.

In the future, I will be more careful of what people can get hold of.

In conclusion I would just like to say thank you for your comments and understanding in this matter.

Such a mix-up will never happen again, but, as the saying goes, I'm only human and everybody makes mistakes. Sincerely

B.J. - Tucson

I Try To Remember The Cruise To Remember

by Arthur and John Part Three

Awoke to groanings from the ship's motors and screaming and cheering from the shore. Key West was at hand and some of the native boys had come out to say hello. Went ashore at 10:30 and a pretty blond guy, with a beautiful fuzzy chest, wearing a grass skirt, handed us bloody marins. It was then that I thought we might enjoy this place. We'd gotten up at 7:30 for breakfast, after sleeping a couple hours, eaten and gone back to bed to be woken by the dockside welcome. I don't believe we were real well children that morning, but gamely left the boat and strode onto the hot, humid island. The jungular feel of the place is hard to convey. We've all seen palms, snake plants (mother-in-law tongues?), philodendrons, etc. But you've probably never seen them this big. Everything was obscenely lush and vibrant with life - flowers of all hues and colors, greens alone that would confound the Irish! And the people, my - obscenely lush is not really too strong. Besides all the queens from the ship - out in their new finery (I know there's people who bought things in Key West they'd be killed if they wore here in Tucson. Ask David about his shorts that look like middies or culottes.), the locals all were out to see what we looked like - a true assortment of people were wandering around. I was almost tempted into some of those long shorts, too, but remembered my own comment that people wearing the khaki ones and cotton shirts lack only sensible shoes, a pith helmet and binoculars to be taken for birdwatching English matrons.

until she showed as a hat with a huge bill on it - you know, like a regular baseball cap but the front sticks way out, and, leaning over to me said: "This'll shade your hard-on, honey." Man of the world that I am, I could only bug my eyes at her and blush. My gosh! Turns out she was a man (John says he knew all along) and Ms. Bay Key West to boot. We saw her later, in full drag, standing in front of a bar, screaming "Come on in here, don't you see what you're missing." Quite a woman.

We shopped and walked until we were tired and saturated with sweat and began to look for somewhere to eat lunch. We found that you could buy one anchilade for $3.25! Or a typical Chinese entree for $8.00. So we ate seafood at this place called Pete's Seafood Mart and Fish House. Everything off plastic, but cheap and talk about good. Doh! John had a fried lobster sandwich whilst I dined on fried conch. There weren't many people there until some more boys from the boat saw us through the window, so they trooped in. This continued until the place was fairly packed with guys from the cruise. I guess it's sort of like women all going to the restroom together or something. Shopped a little more after lunch and then returned to the ship to sit in the sun and rest.

This night at dinner was not particularly memorable except for dessert. They had a bombe - a white, dome-like confection they set on fire and then

The air was so rich with smell and heat that our brains became affected. A whole carload of boys in grass skirts drove by and loudly saluted us as we walked down the main street. Stores, restaurants, and just varieties of little holes-in-the wall beckon the unwary tourist. John felt compelled to buy a light fixture with a glowing flamingo inside (the pink flamingo seems to be the national symbol of Key West) while I contented myself with reasonable purchases like pink pig face masks. We went into this place that sold only hats (and hardly any really functional ones - they all seemed to have a gimmick) and were greeted by the Owner - a chunky woman in a pink jumpsuit. She wore a hat with flamingo wings and a body sticking off the front of it - she pulled a string and the wings flapped. All was well serve. Did all that and then all the help sang Yellowbird, sort of a Jamaican fave, and our waiter danced around the table with our bombe on his head. Ask Big Ed to let you see his picture of it. I forget what the thing actually tasted like, but the presentation was something else.

All the bars were doing special stuff 'cause we were there so we had plenty to do later. Set out for the disco named the Copa - located in an old movie theater. Too early so we returned to a bar named Michael's (remember the one we had here - did he burn it for the insurance or was it the next Owner?) which had a dance floor like JJ's, a bar out back with ailly pond you could sit over on a deck, and a piano bar

DID YOU SEE THIS? WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR. IS SAYING THAT AIDS TEST SHOULD BE MANDATORY AND THAT AIDS CARRIERS SHOULD BE TATTOOED.

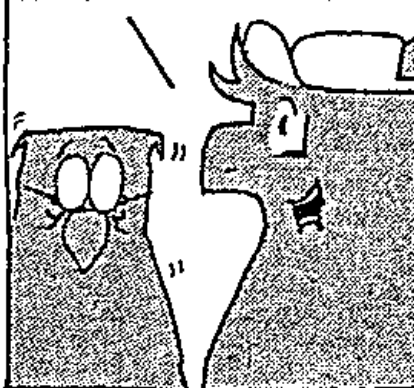

CAN YOU IMAGINE WHAT IT WILL BE LIKE IF THIS GOES THROUGH?

CAN YOU IMAGINE SAYING TO SOME ONE 'EXCUSE ME, BUT BEFORE I TAKE YOU HOME DO YOU MIND IF I LOOK YOU OVER IN A STRONG LIGHT?'

I SEE WHAT YOU MEAN. DIFFICULT TO RE-ESTABLISH THE MOOD AFTER THAT!

A View From Within

A COMMENTARY BY
CHRISTOPHER GEOFFREY McPHERSON

MARK YOUR CALENDARS!

As April rolls around, I thought you might be interested in a couple things which will be happening during this exciting month. (And, for those of you who plan on getting upset because not every event on earth will be listed here, calm down. I only have so many words to work with.) Also, these are not listed in chronological order, so do your best.

The movie An Early Front will be repeated Monday evening, April 28 on your local NBC station. Check your local listings for the time (which should be 8:00 p.m.) and channel.

The CBS newsmagazine WEST 57th is scheduled to come back on the network's schedule on Wednesday, April 30. You may remember this as the fast-food-news magazine which did some real sharp news pieces when it ran for a couple weeks last year.

Keep your eyes on this column for more information on a new radio station which will be debuting sometime in the very, very near future. It will not be in our market, it will be in Washington, D.C., but it will be a first, nonetheless. Attorneys Nick Addams and Casey DeMinico have plans to purchase and AM radio station. The project is very hush-hush right now, but the format is described as being "basic programming" with a sensitivity to Gay needs. A recent survey has been done of Gay listeners in that area, and the response has been favorable. More on this as it develops.

For my readers in the Phoenix area --and those in Tucson who have cable access-- mark your calendars for Saturday, April 19 and April 26. Why? The PBS station in Phoenix --KATV, Channel 8-- will be broadcasting six hours of a (big) symposium. Watch this column next week when I will give you all the details about it. This symposium is going to prove to be a big moment in Gay history. Believe me!

*****
The AMERICAN MEDICAL NEWS of March 21 ran an article about the possible misconceptions involved with the use of condoms and safe-sex. In a letter-to-the-Editor, a doctor from San Diego pointed out that "condoms have a 10% failure rate for pregnancy". This letter outlined information that "A virus is many times smaller than a sperm, so it would be logical to assume that the failure rate of a condom in protecting against the AIDS virus transmission would be even higher." The letter stresses that those persons engaging in safe-sex should understand that they are "facing a 10% or greater risk."

Also, for those in the know, the word "promiscuity" does not exist. Sorry.

OUT ON THE TOWN

STUNT MALIBU CHRISTI FAN CLUB NEWSLETTER

Christi wishes to thank all of you who helped to stuff her box so well last week. Thanks to Teresa we get filled in on some more friendly gossip. It seems Teresa and everyone at the Ponderosa had a festive time St. Patrick's Day. Vivian had such a good time she refused a ride on the Butch Marshmallow. If you have a husband, keep him at home, especially now that she is out of the closet. Wheatley Wonka has a new pick-me-up. He's still learning to use the clutch but he's still a good coach. Mother Divine had such a traumatic experience at the clinic, she ended up smashing donuts with her crutches, and to top it off, she missed the green beer. John John snores in her sleep and trickles don't know the time of day when they have too much fun the night before -- Thank you Teresa.

Leave it to Vivian to slap Jza Jza's hand for not appearing at one of Tucson's most festive occasions. Jza Jza apologizes. But then again, were invitations sent out? Anyway the weather in the mountains was wonderful.

Toasted Tottie has chosen to forgive Ms. Vivian for her editorial comments concerning Tottie's cousin Taudette. Tottie wouldn't even consider explaining that mini skirt incident. True friends never spread such information. Speaking of spreads, Ronda.....

Mathilda Mackowitz is still peddling her box. Her latest prospect did a 180 and fled. Dash will have to come up with better bait for better bites. Della is still coming down from the mountains on occasion only to terrorize the poor Village People. Toasted Tottie had a narrow escape just last week.

Well world, that much feared awaited day has arrived. Toasted Tottie is taking a much-needed sabbatical. Seems her Daddy's advice will be taken to heart. So girls, start looking for loveliness, beauty and grace in those other bars. So Ms. Anna Rexia, guess who needs to find other ways to raid the bars. P.S. to that fair-haired male youth of copulation, Tottie says keep in touch, the walk comes later.

Is Sammy Jo playing basketball or just trying to keep up with Mother Divine? So whatever happened to Veronica, Baby Ray, Teresa's roommate, and who is the Warehouse Queen. If we don't hear from Emily Post soon, Perry A. will get all those roses.

Now for another letter from one of Christi's fans:

Dear Christi:

Loved the St. Patrick's party at the Ponderosa. Had a festive old time! I just have a few questions: Tell me, has Vivian stopped eating the corned beef yet? Now we all know why her pumps hurt her feet so bad! And has Miss Le Shea put any more scuff marks on the ceiling lately? By the way, John John says her nails are stronger than Vivian's pumps after drinking Jza Jza's green punch.

Has Teresa and your unreliable and unemployed secretary recovered from the trauma after taking a ride on the wild side in an attempt to find Mother Divine's crypt? And has Jza Jza been looking for affection in all the damp places she can? Like she said, "I'm the back of the beer truck." Just one more question. Has tall, dark and handsome awakened from his 40 years slumber yet? It's guys like him who can give a girl a complex. Luv

Trixie and her poison pen
