WHAT A YEAR!

The year 1987 was a mix of good and bad. It began on a low note when on Feb. 12 Arizona's new governor, Evan Mecham, declared that homosexuality is "not an acceptable lifestyle." Estimates that homosexuals represent about ten percent of the population are put out to create a power of fear in officeholders," the governor continued.

In March the governors supporters attacked Mecham Watchdog Committee founder Ed Buck and 'exposed' him to be a "sexual-disoriented" person. Buck responded by saying that he didn't intend to debate homosexuality or his credibility, that the campaign didn't depend on him and that the committee has 3,000 members. Buck said that the effort to recall Mecham "is happening because of Evan Mecham and that personal attacks against him will not hurt the effort. "I am not the key to the campaign," he said.

In March in response to a letter from a Tucson Lesbian, Mecham special Assistant, Mac Matheson, on official stationery, wrote, "...I am sure that God loves you, even though your chosen lifestyle is so abhorrent that it was punishable by death among the Children of Israel." "...You say you are gay, and I thought too bad. How sad! My dictionary describes a gay as 'one given to social pleasures or indulgence; hence, loose, licentious.' And licentious: 'Characterized by license; lawless, now esp., dissolute; libertine; lewd.' It is difficult for me to comprehend how you can reconcile that kind of behavior with God's laws." !!!!!

Then in April, President

WHAT A YEAR!

Reagan, for the first time in his more than six years in office, talked extensively about AIDS. He defended his administrations commitment to alleviating the AIDS crisis. He was reminded that Congress actually had approved more than he recommended for AIDS in recent years. Reagan replied, "Well, Congress is made up of spendthrifts." !!!!!

In May, Ed Buck called in to Gov. Mecham's weekly radio show to say the governor had falsely said he had worked to support the Carolyn Warner candidacy. Mecham replied to Buck: "You are a very deceitful person, and we have the goods on you, and you really don't amount to a hill of beans, and we aren't concerned about you, and as far as I'm concerned, you've faded into the woodwork." !!!!!

By May 20, over 6,000 people had contacted the Recall Committee wanting to get involved in the recall effort!

In June nearly 3,000 people attended the 10th Annual Gay/Lesbian Pride Picnic in Himmel Park. The then Mayoral candidate Tom Volgy spoke to the large crowd.

July 10 saw the arrival of Mecham Recall Petitions in Tucson. Over 5,000 petitioners statewide began the long, hot, hectic recall process. Mecham has claimed that the recall effort is the product of homosexual activists and dissident Democrats. In the first ten days, as of July 20, 46,109 signatures had been gathered for the recall. !!!!!

In early August, Mecham declared on his weekly radio call-in show that he doesn't believe the First Amendment gives homosexuals the right to have their own club at the Arizona State University. Mecham wrote to University President J. Russell Nelson that he was "greatly disturbed" about the existence of the club, adding that he thought it was a "questionable activity". Concerning his letter, Mecham said, "I asked President Nelson that if we have an organization ... that was fostering homosexuality, that I want to know what the university is doing fostering such a thing.

When challenged that the First Amendment guarantees the group the right to organize under freedom of speech and freedom of association, Mecham responded, "I disagree with you." He later added that, "I am very, very familiar with the Constitution."

The same week, the third largest newspaper in the state, Tucson's Arizona Daily Star, called for the governor's recall. !!!!!

By August 19, 103,379 signatures had been collected on recall petitions. By the middle of September the signatures totalled 182,264. And toward the end of September, the Committee announced that it had reached its initial goal of over 217,000 names on recall petitions. !!!!!

In September our communities were alerted to the upcoming Supreme Court nomination hearings of Judge Robert H. Bork. Requests for letters and mailgrams to the Senate confirmation committee again paid off. On Oct. 6 the Senate Judiciary Committee voted 9 to 5 against Judge Bork's nomination.

In November over 600,000 Gay men and Lesbians marched on Washington in a show of force never before seen in our nation's Capitol. The March, The Names Project, The Wedding, The protest demonstration at the Supreme Court are memories now, but they are live memories that will continue to blossom and grow in all Gay communities across the country.

In the November Tucson City Council elections, Democrat Tom Volgy was elected Mayor.

As of November 3rd, the deadline, a total of 386,648 recall signatures on petitions were turned over to Arizona Secretary of State Rose Mofford. By the middle of December more than enough signatures had been verified by the various county recorders to assure that Governor Evan Mecham would be forced into a recall election next spring.

The year has been a busy one politically. And for the first time in Arizona, the Gay and Lesbian community has been heard from - loud and strong. We all had a hand in forcing our governor into at least a recall election, if he is not impeached or resigns before that election.

Our voices were heard as far away as Washington when tons of mail and thousands of phone calls voiced our objection to the nomination of a Supreme Court nominee who was out of touch with the realities in the world. And it was heard locally when the voters in the community elected Tom Volgy as Tucson's new mayor.

These are the positive things that happened during the past year. Congratulations to the community for these excellent efforts.

There have been several things that have happened on the down side that are still nagging, not only our community, but all communities around the world. The most sullen was when it was announced that the number of AIDS cases had doubled in Pima county since last January.

"It is imperative that we tell the public... that at the moment death is the partner of most people with AIDS... an enormous human catastrophe."

— C. Everett Koop
Surgeon General

Koop puts '91 AIDS cost at $16 billion

by Jack Schreiman
SAN FRANCISCO, CA (AP) — Surgeon General C. Everett Koop estimated that by 1991 it could cost Americans as much as $16 billion to cope with AIDS, the worldwide scourge he called the "most vicious of infectious diseases in the history of the race."

The Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., predicted that by 1991, 270,000 people in the United States will have the disease, and Koop noted no cure is on the horizon.

"We eventually will have something that will resemble a vaccine that is safe, effective and available," but nothing is in sight, he told 1,300 public-health executives, staffers and allied workers attending the National AIDS Conference.

The nation's top public-health officer said education against spread on all levels of society, remains the chief weapon to fight acquired immune deficiency syndrome, which destroys the body's ability to fight off disease.

People at low risk to catch AIDS should not snugly comfort themselves that they are in the clear, he said, because they and the rest of society are and will be affected by it in some way.

NEW LAW PROVIDES FOR IMMEDIATE DRIVER'S LICENSE SUSPENSION OPERATION SAFERIDE OFFERS
CAB SERVICE TO HOME

TUCSON - A new state law that takes effect Jan. 1 puts some additional teeth into Arizona's drunken-driving laws. Beginning this New Year's Eve a police officer must take your driver's license on the spot if a breathalyzer shows you're legally intoxicated or if you refuse to take the test. The new state law gives the officer no choice. The instant suspension can last up to a year.

If you doubt your sobriety, Operation Saferide offers an alternative to getting behind the wheel of your car.

By calling 797-1111, you will get an operator who will dispatch a Yellow Cab to take you to your home.

The ride is free, paid for out of a fund into which bar owners around town donate a monthly fee.

Callers are asked their location, where their car is and where their home is. They will not be given a ride to a bar or a house where there is a party going on, said Helen Wolf, coordinator of the program.

The service is available from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. Wednesdays through Sundays year-round.

Since Thanksgiving, Wolf said the program has received 25 to 50 calls a night and has provided 265 rides home.

"If we save one life, the program's working," Wolf said.

TWO CHRISTMAS TREE RAFFLE UPDATES
TUCSON - The Christmas Tree Raffle held by the Tucson Knight Owls (TKO) at the Graduate on Dec. 18, with proceeds going to the Make-A-Wish Foundation has been finalized and the money has been designated.

Tommy Marlin, President of TKO, has announced that the money raised will go to Billy, whose wish was "to go to the moon". Billy, a four-year-old with leukemia, with his parents and fourteen month old sister, will fly to Florida where the family will stay at the Disneyland Hotel for five days. During the family's stay in Florida, they will tour Disneyland and Cape Kennedy. Arrangements have been made for Billy to meet the astronauts and go through a spaceship.

While the family is in Florida, they will be given a rental car for their personal use when they are not being guided by the local organization. Tentative plans are that the family will leave Tucson on January 1, and will be met at the airport and be taken directly to the hotel.

Joan, a spokesperson for Make-A-Wish Foundation will have a full report on the trip and hopefully have pictures by the middle of January.

Thank you Tucson, you have made not only a wish, but a dream come true.

ARCHIE COMIC TO PLUG AIDS EDUCATION TO KIDS
NEW YORK, NY (AP) - Kids who revel in the adventure of Archie and Jughead will get a plug for AIDS education with the start of a year-long public service campaign.

Each monthly issue of Archie Comics will include a full-page ad showing Archie and his friends in a class, with Riverdale High School's principal, Mr. Weatherbee, pointing to a blackboard that reads:

"HEALTH EDUCATION: AIDS is a serious worldwide problem that affects people of all ages, in all walks of life. Until a cure is found, there is only one effective weapon against this problem, and that weapon is EDUCATION!!"

LaRouche followers get AIDS initiative on California ballot again

by Kevin J. O'Rourke

SACRAMENTO, CA - Followers of extremist Lyndon LaRouche have placed a new AIDS initiative on the California ballot that is nearly identical to Proposition 64, the measure soundly rejected by voters a year ago.

Secretary of State March Fong Eu announced that initiative petitions turned in by LaRouche followers, Khushra Ghandi and Brian Lantz, carried signatures of 508,695 voters, about 100,000 more than required.

The initiative, which will appear on the June, 1988 ballot, is essentially the same as Proposition 64, spokesmen for Eu and Atty. Gen. John K. Van de Kamp said. It would require doctors and local health officials to report the names of AIDS patients and people who test positive for AIDS antibodies. Both AIDS patients and those with positive tests would be subject to quarantine laws, the official state summary of the measure says.

A year ago, health officials and Gay groups joined in a campaign that spent nearly $3 million to defeat the LaRouche effort. Opponents said Proposition 64 was a thinly veiled attack on homosexuals by LaRouche, who has a long history of writings abusive to Gays and would only hurt efforts to find a cure for acquired immune deficiency syndrome. It was defeated by a 71% to 29% margin.

Melissa Warren, a spokeswoman for Eu, said the latest petitions were declared valid after a random check of the signatures - but without ascertaining that the petitions themselves were properly circulated by California residents. "We have had no complaints," Warren said.

For more than a year, investigators have been looking into allegations that some signatures were forged on the Proposition 64 petitions. The investigation, which was started by Van de Kamp's office and included a raid on LaRouche's Los Angeles headquarters, also focused on reports that the petitions were circulated by hired out-of-state residents, in violation of state election laws.

Last February, after eight months, the case was turned over to the Los Angeles District Attorney for further investigation. "It has been under investigation there for a considerable period of time," Nelson Kempsky, chief deputy attorney general said.

Reiner aides said that the probe has continued and that investigators traveled back East to wrap up questioning.

State officials said they have received no complaints about the current petition signatures. In any case, the LaRouche followers were able to again gather sufficient valid signatures to qualify for the ballot.

LaRouche is a political extremist, based in Virginia and West Germany, who has filed papers to seek the 1988 Democratic Party nomination for President, his third run for the office. He is believed to have a cadre of fewer than 1,000 hard-core supporters spread around the country.

In October, 1986, 10 of his followers were indicted by a federal grand jury in Boston on a variety of fraud and obstruction of justice charges. LaRouche, who was not indicted, sent a telegram to President Reagan vowing to resist if he were arrested, but later submitted to questioning.

This year LaRouche, 64, was himself charged with a federal count of obstruction of justice for allegedly directing the destruction of documents and hiding witnesses requested by the Boston grand jury. His trial has been delayed pending completion of the trial for former Ku Klux Klan leader Roy Frankhauser, who was charged with helping LaRouche hide a fraudulent scheme to finance his 1984 presidential race.

In California, his followers have run for hundreds of state, local and congressional offices with little success other than to win seats on the Democratic and Republican party central committees.

Ghandi and Lantz, who also sponsored Proposition 64, are longtime LaRouche associates who have run for office under the banner of his National Democratic Policy Committee.

Helms amendment 'amended'

WASHINGTON, DC - The Human Rights Campaign Fund has declared a victory on behalf of the Gay community as the Continuing Resolutions Committee for the Budget Bill dealt favorably with four resolutions directly related to Gay issues.

The Conferees accepted a change in the language of the Helms Amendment to the Labor and Health and Human Services Appropriations Bill. The amendment now reads that federal funding will be withheld from AIDS programs for educational material that "promotes or encourages directly homosexual, sexual material that 'promotes or encourages directly homosexual, sexual activity'". The new language, introduced by Stern Hoyer (D-MD), ensures that funding for AIDS educational programs aimed at the Gay community will not be blocked by Congress.

Steve Smith, legislative counsel for HRCF, said, "Congress' intent is now clear. The government is willing to assist organizations within the Gay community in providing accurate and effective AIDS educational material targeted at the Gay community."

"There is no question in my mind that the Campaign Funds nationwide ad campaign to bring attention to this issue has made a difference," said Vic Basile, Executive Director.

The HRCF worked closely with the AIDS Action Council to make the amendment less damaging to AIDS educational programs. The HRCF will monitor closely the administration's response to the new language changes to ensure that such actions are carried out, Smith said.

Conferees also deleted the Helms amendment to repeal an existing District law which prohibits the use of HIV testing to determine eligibility for insurance coverage.

The Campaign Fund was successful in its efforts to have the Conference Committee adopt two resolutions concerning federal management which could well make a major difference in the time needed to initiate AIDS research projects.

The first resolution will require the Office of Personnel Man-

A COMMENTARY BY

CHRISTOPHER GEOFFREY McPHERSON

LIVE FROM L.A., IT'S

Geez: the holidays have been so hectic, as has work, and life in general that I have been late in getting to this week's column. Part of the problem stems from my recent trip over the weekend to Los Angeles: City of Civilization.

Partly pleasure, partly business, Los Angeles saw another shopping spree down Melrose Avenue; another shopping fest at Beverly Center; the American Ballet Theatre "Nutcracker" — a not too inappropriate title for a weekend in Los Angeles.

Two fun things came out of this trip: First, on Melrose I saw a pair of sports shorts for men called "Safety Shorts". For $18, one can buy a pair of all-cotton shorts — in a variety of colors — complete with a special pocket for a condom and a condom. How appropriate. Changing the face of fashion design as we know it.

Next, a wonderful pair of exhibits at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art: "Hollywood and History: Costume Design in Film" opened Dec 20 and runs through March 6, 1988. "Masters of Starlight" Photographers in Hollywood" opened the same day and runs through Feb. 21.

These two brilliantly executed exhibits show usually-unseen sides of Hollywood and the stars which populated it.

The costume design retrospective shows how contemporary ideas in fashion affected the way historical fashions were designed for films throughout the years. In other words, Cleopatra's outfit in 1917 (worn by Theda Bara) ignored historical accuracy in favor of designing a then-modern 1920s sheath. The 1934 Claudette Colbert, and 1963 Elizabeth Taylor Cleopatra also suffered from effects of contemporary influence.

The photographer exhibit shows us the stars we love when they are not being stars. Many are publicity stills from the era, and others are pictures taken while a film was in progress. It provides an always fascinating look behind the processed images.

Sorry for such a short column this week. Must go and finish preparing for the New Year.

At Spes Non Fracta: See you next year!

Additionally, it was resolved that the National Institutes of Health will have six months to review grants, contracts and cooperative agreements before they make a decision to award funds or not.

"These actions, together with the appropriation of $906,459, 000 for Fiscal Year 1988 for federal AIDS programs, more than double last year's appropriation, are critical steps in the effort to speed up research and ensure that services and education go forward," said Basile.

KOOP PUTS '91 AIDS COST AT $16 BILLION

"It is imperative that we tell the public... that at the moment death is the partner of most people with AIDS... an enormous human catastrophe," he said.

He added that since 1981 the disease has afflicted more than 44,000 Americans, of whom 25,000 have died.

In a wide-ranging philosophical speech, Koop counseled courage in victims of AIDS; those who have tested positive for the virus but have no symptoms; and especially people who, "weakened by the despair of the disease," deny compassion to their fellow beings.

He made forceful reference to "physicians and nurses — very few, thank goodness — who don't want to treat AIDS patients because of the danger of becoming infected with the virus themselves."

They know, said the pioneer in pediatric surgery, that hepatitis "is 40 times more infectious for people working with patients than is AIDS... the risk is miniscule."

These medical practitioners, he said, might be trying to say, but cannot bring themselves to do so, "we don't care, because these people with AIDS are as good as dead already... that's a horrible statement and the first moment it is said it must stimulate our compassion for people with AIDS... they must not be abandoned, and therefore given a foretaste of death."

Tiff over incident at L.A. Gay bar

by Bill Boyarsky

LOS ANGELES, CA - If the firefighters and police summoned to handle an overcrowding complaint at the One Way bar thought it would be a routine assignment, they picked the wrong bar.

Among the 286 people - triple the permitted capacity - who were in the Silver Lake club at 1:15 a.m. were some of the most politically influential members of the local Gay community. They complained to City Councilman Michael Woo, who demanded an investigation of the incident. That set off a row between Woo and Police Chief Daryl F. Gates, who said he was "incensed and offended" by the councilman.

Cndr. William Booth, a police spokesman, said Woo had called Gates, told him of the complaints and asked for an investigation. When Woo said he was going to make a statement about the incident, Booth quoted Gates as saying, "make a statement that you asked, or if you want, demanded, that I find out [what happened] and that I would get back to you immediately." That was the understanding the chief thought he had with the councilman.

But when Woo - whose district includes Hollywood and Silver Lake, both with large Gay populations - held a press conference without mentioning his conversation with the chief, Gates felt he had been attacked without warning by the councilman, Booth said.

Police and fire officials defended the conduct of their forces. But West Hollywood City Councilman Steve Schulte, a Gay political leader who was at the One Way at the time, said the incident brought back memories of what he considered anti-Gay raids on bars in the 1970s.

"It looks like the old pattern," he said.

Among other Gay community leaders who were at the bar were Eric Rofes, executive director of the Gay and Lesbian Community Service Center and Steve Weltman, former chair of the Stonewall Democratic Club, an influential Gay political organization.

Although the incident now threatens to explode into a major feud between the Los Angeles Police Department and the Gay community, it began in a routine manner.

Los Angeles Fire Department Battalion Chief Dean Cathey said someone - there is no record of a name - phoned the department to complain of overcrowding in the bar.

Following procedure, he said, a crew from the nearest fire station was sent to the bar, which is located in one of the lower-rent sections of Silver Lake, a neighborhood that stretches from poor housing just northwest of downtown to affluent sections in the hills. He said there were six firefighters in a ladder truck and another vehicle. An investigator from the Fire Prevention Bureau was also sent there, he said.

Three firefighters walked in and found 286 people in an area in which 90 were permitted, Cathey said. "We counted them," he said.

Police were called. "There was a large crowd, some resistance on the part of the patrons and the management, and there was concern for injury to Fire Department personnel and the patrons," he said.

Chief Cathey said the club owner was cited for overcrowding and obstruction of exits.

Schulte saw the incident differently. "Four fire officers with asbestos coats walked in, which was pretty intrusive," he said. "The word was there were lots of police outside." Schulte said he counted between 15 to 20 officers at one point.

The bar management asked the patrons to leave. Outside, Schulte said things were pretty orderly. "Then someone higher up in the Fire Department said the bar was closed. . . . A couple of police officers got pretty aggressive, gave people 'till a count of three to leave. I thought people would be arrested. It was a tense scene for a moment or more."

At his press conference, Woo charged that "10 police cars were deployed" to the One Way bar, and that two other bars, the Detour and the Gauntlet "were subject to raids this weekend."

"It raises serious questions as to whether our police officers are best being utilized," he said.

Assistant Police Chief Robert Vernon gave a different account in an interview. Vernon said that when the Fire Department called for help, two police cars, each with two officers, responded. He said those officers asked for a supervisor to come to the bar. A sergeant arrived, as did two other police cars, each with two officers. That made a total of nine officers in five cars, he said.

Booth said the supervisor, Sgt. R.J. Freet, wrote in his log after the incident that he saw "lots of unhappy customers and allegations of harassment."

Vernon said the Police Department usually does not help the Fire Department with calls concerning overcrowding. He said, for example, that the police did not accompany the Fire Department to an investigation of overcrowding at the Detour bar over the weekend.

AIDS MEMORIAL QUILT RETURNS TO SAN FRANCISCO TO OPEN TOUR
SAN FRANCISCO, CA (AP) - The AIDS Memorial Quilt, which was unfurled in Washington, D.C. last October, came home Thursday, Dec. 17 for the holidays to the city where it was created.

The colorful quilt slowly was unfurled in 24-foot by 24-foot sections during a three-hour ceremony by 150 white-clad volunteers inside the city's cavernous Moscone Center.

The homespun memorial, sort of a cloth version of the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, bears 2,177 names of AIDS victims emblazoned on patches of cloth and sewn into a giant quilt.

Those names were read aloud by 68 speakers, including state Assembly Speaker Willie Brown and San Francisco Examiner Publisher William R. Hearst III, as about 1,000 tearful survivors and friends looked on, occasionally hugging each other. Some sat by themselves and cried. For the most part, there was a somber silence.

"I'm glad we finally have a chance to show it to San Franciscans because people in San Francisco have been so good to this project," said Cleve Jones, coordinator of The NAMES Project.

"It just feels so good to have it [become a reality] and know that there was that much love and creativity and energy out there," he added. Jones said he has no idea how large the quilt eventually will become. Another 800 panels each bearing the name of a victim have not yet been sewn into the larger quilt.

The Quilt will begin a nationwide tour this spring and the tentative date for the viewing in Phoenix is April 15.

TLGA and JOSHUA TREE PRODUCTIONS PRESENTS

"THE FAIRIES WHO SAVED CHRISTMAS"

WHAT'S UP DOC?

Being from back east, I really enjoyed waking up Christmas morning to a white Christmas. But, having lived in Tucson for 16 years now, I'm ready for the warm weather to return. The newspaper said Tucson gets a white Christmas approximately every 46 years. By the time the next one should be here, I'll be turning 21, and leaving on a world tour.

The holidays started out way back last weekend with the Tucson brotherhood of clubs, having their annual Christmas Party. Once again, in true brotherhood, all of Tucson's clubs were present and in high holiday spirits - even before the liquid spirits were consumed. Gifts were passed out and I think all were well chosen for the occasion. Probably one that might not agree with me was Dennis, who received a child's starter plate setting. After the party, everyone headed for the Graduate for more liquid libation.

The next party followed on Sunday evening, finding TKO, DL, Partners, and T-Squares over at Joe and Bob's. At this party, we witnessed remains from T-Squares Hoedown earlier in the day, plus a beauty contest that Bert and I were called on to judge. Walking off with top prize was Double Flap 2 (TKO), the prize being an altered 10" ruler to check true measurements. A very close "Miss Runner-Up" was TKO's -pledge John. I can honestly say the vote was close and both were beautiful (???)

Starting the holidays off was way back on Dec. 18 at the Graduate. That was the night TKO held the drawing for their annual $100 Christmas tree raffle. This year's winner of the tree was Roger of the Graduate, but the big winner of the evening was a 14-year-old boy in the Make-A-Wish program. Check elsewhere in this issue of OBSERVER for a complete story on the wish this kid and the end results as to what he will be receiving.

At this time on behalf of TKO, I want to thank the Tucson community for coming through for this raffle. The total proceeds raised came to over $1,100. With this type of support from each of you, one special wish will come true (to a degree) and Christmas 1987 will be a very special one for a kid.

Of course, no evening, this one especially, is complete without another show. Starring for this holiday show was Miss Gay Tucson Tabitha Scott; Tucson's Queen of Country, Bobbi Jo, and the #1 Barbra Streisand, Tiffany. It was a beautiful show and all three really got the Christmas spirit off on a high note, with plenty of love.

With all the parties going on, why have a Beer Bust? On Saturday, Partners and DL teamed up for a Beer Bust over at IBT's. All proceeds ($110) went to People with AIDS Coalition of Tucson (PACT). It was a fun Beer Bust with all of both clubs parking lots on hand trying to keep up with the drivers (private joke folks). We, as a group, also came up with a TTT Parking Lot (Harald)

Then, over at the Graduate Sunday, T.A.L.L. had a full day of activities. Starting off the day was a Beer Bust. Then along with that, there was a supper served for $2.99. Finally that evening, T.A.L.L. put on a show. I wasn't there for the complete day, but the time I was there, the bar was full and everyone was having fun. During the time I was there, George gave about a 30-minute show on how not to hang the strap above the pool table.

An up-coming event you should be marking on your calendar is Saturday, Jan. 16. On that day, over at IBT's, Partners will be swearing in their newly elected officers for 1988. In addition they will be celebrating their birthday and afterward will present a show that, I'm sure will go down in history. Just where in history, good or bad, will be up to you. All members of Partners will be performing their own version, on like you'll never see again, of Gypsy. This day will be a really great day for Partners, and we hope you join us for all the festivities.

I understand that the group who went to Phoenix to be guest bartenders at Charlie's, really had a knock out of a good time. Then, one of the group was seen on the floor, again, bouncing across the dance floor on his rear. Boy, am I glad I stayed home.

Mystery of the Week: Which local bartender took about 30 minutes helping put on a G-string on a male strip dancer? I also heard something about teeth, but I'll leave that part to your own imagination.

That's it for this week. New Year's comes rolling in this week, and you can bet the cops will be out in full force. Please call taxi, don't drive if you have had too much to drink. If you are at someone's home, sleep on the floor for the night. Let's all have a good one, but also come out of it safely.

ABBY APOLOGIZES FOR INSENSITIVE REMARK ABOUT GAY
NEW YORK, NY - Advice columnists get it all the time. And, sometimes when they feel the sting of criticism for their advice, it can be embarrassing. Recently Abigail Van Buren ("Dear Abby"), who has often written pro-gay material in her column, received an avalanche of angry protests about advice she had given to a gay-related situation.

To Abby's credit, she took the criticism and admitted she was wrong.

The incident began when Abby received a letter from a mother, whose gay son had just lost a lover to AIDS. The son had just returned home for a family reunion and was asked to pretend life was "beautiful" rather than reveal the pain of his loss as well as his sexual orientation. The son, "John", refused to do this.

His mother said, "We love our son, but don't want the embarrassment and hysteria that this situation could bring." Abby said in her column that John was being "inconsiderate and insensitive."

Abby didn't realize, however that her usually loyal fans weren't going to tolerate an answer like that.

A bisexual in Chicago lashed into Abby, saying that "I can't believe anyone who would make that statement would advise a gay person to stay in the closet at a time when he needs all the support and understanding he can get. If his family can't stand the 'embarrassment and hysteria,' that's their problem, not his."

Gary of Houston opined that since John "is almost certain to die of AIDS, how are they (the parents) going to deal with the 'hysteria and embarrassment,' of that situation?"

Kristi of Mill Valley, California, shared Abby for "encouraging them (the parents) to stifle" John.

Abby apologized for "my own insensitivity," adding that "I should have known better. And the sad fact is, I really do."

If you missed it once,
don't let it happen again!
